We would like to welcome back all of the riders in our program and all of the wonderful volunteers that enable PARD to continue with our therapeutic riding program. We look forward to another great season at PARD.

PARD helped Hannah gain confidence

My name is Hannah Goode and I am 10 years old. I started riding horses with PARD in 2011. I was born with Down syndrome. Having Down Syndrome means I have to work a lot harder than other kids my age to do the same things. Sometimes, this makes it difficult to keep up with them.

When I came to PARD, I had never ridden a horse before, but I loved animals, so I wanted to give it a try. PARD has helped me to gain confidence in myself and work on my speech and social skills too. It is also a great way to strengthen my muscles and keep fit. I get to play a lot of games on my horse and last year I even started to trot!

The volunteers at PARD are great! They are always happy and friendly and they know a lot about the horses. I look forward to going every week. They encouraged me to try horse shows, and I have won two ribbons. Everyone was really proud of me.

This year, I am hoping to learn more about grooming and getting the horses ready for the people to ride. One day I want to learn to jump with my horse in the horse show, but that will take a lot of practice. When I grow up, I want to volunteer at PARD and lead the horses.

The little horse who keeps on going...

Sequal retired from the PARD program at the end of the 2010 season. He is living happily in Warsaw having worked three seasons in the program since 2008.

People often ask, "How old is Sequal?" and the joking response might be, "He's older than dirt."

In fact, Sequal is 34 years old and is thoroughly enjoying retirement in Warsaw with his friends Jilin, Moon and Freedom.

Program night volunteers are vital

It takes a lot of resources to keep the PARD program running. One of the most important resources is the selfless volunteer who comes out on Tuesday and Thursday nights to help with the program. Whether it be to lead a horse, sidewalk with a rider for safety, assist with grooming and tacking or just to help the riders put on their helmet at the start of a lesson, the program night volunteer is vital to keeping the program operational.

"Thank you" to all of the program volunteers to come out to support us!

Rhythm 'n Riders

Thank you to everyone for the fantastic support at our Rhythm 'n Riders event on February 17th, 2013.

Dave and the staff at the Red Dog were fabulous hosts. Katie Bath, Jan Schoute, Rick & Gailie, Tami J Wilde, the Weber Brothers, Charlotte Melby and the Chris Collins Trio generously gave of their time and shared their considerable talents to entertain a packed room of PARD supporters.

We were overwhelmed by the fantastic support from our sponsors and the generous donors who contributed to the silent auction table.

Paul Rellinger was the best emcee ever. Ron Lalonde presented a lovely overview of the PARD program and kindly recognized the efforts that go into making our program a success.

And the extraordinary efforts of the PARD board who coordinated this event, collected items and assembled the silent auction and organized the snacks for the afternoon.

To everyone who bought or sold tickets: "We hope you had a fantastic time!" We are thrilled with the funds that were raised. The monies will be put towards care for the horses including board and feed.

Great job, everyone! Thank you.

Always more to learn

Therapeutic riding instructors are required to be certified by the OnTRA (Ontario Therapeutic Riding Association) and CanTRA (Canadian Therapeutic Riding Association). This certification is a time-consuming process and requires the instructor to complete many facets including a required number of volunteer hours, mentor hours, obtaining a specific rider level, preparing a home study, rider study and much more.

The final portion of the certificate is a written and practical exam. PARD has three instructors: Kathy, who is certified, and Wendy and Chris who are working towards their certification.

Our instructors also have to do a specific number of updating training hours yearly, be up to date on CPR/first aid and much more. Recently Kathy, Wendy and Chris participated in training for Non-Violent Crisis Intervention.

In the near future, all three instructors will be taking ASL (American Sign Language) training.

Instructors need to be trained in all aspects: the horses ability, the different riders' abilities and how that may or may not work with specific horses, plus first aid for the riders as well as the horses.

Being a therapeutic riding instructor is a big commitment, but nothing nearly as tremendous as the reward that an instructor receives from our amazing riders!

Annual Open House was a day full of sunshine

The PARD instructors, riders and horses look forward to our first official event of the year every spring - our annual Open House. Under bright blue skies on May 6th last year, the crowd of potential volunteers and riders with their families followed the sample lessons and actively participated in a question & answer period. It was a productive and successful afternoon which resulted in expanding PARD's volunteer support.

This year's Open House will be immediately followed by an orientation session for volunteers. Anyone interested in volunteering will get some hands-on training and the opportunity to participate in a mock lesson with our horses and riders.

Everyone is welcome to join us for the afternoon. Our board members will be on hand to answer your questions. Of course, we'll have refreshments, too.

Volunteer profiles: “Everyone comes for the horses, but you stay for the riders”

Cathy Rae

Cathy Rae began volunteering with PARD and we knew we wanted her to join our board. Her positive energy and enthusiasm was encouraging.

Cathy writes about her first impressions of PARD:

“Throughout time, we have ridden and driven horses and used them in both our work and sport. They have inspired us to create, and been our companions and our partners. But through participation in PARD as a volunteer and getting to know the PARD horses, I have seen yet another dimension to our relationship with the horse.

These patient animals, Reno, Nubuck, Stormy and Doc, matched with caring PARD volunteers give their riders a feeling of freedom and independence. Through the rhythm of their stride, they “encourage” their riders to use muscles, tendons and bone to improve balance and strength. The riders that can, talk to their mounts, and rub their faces and necks, and the horses, in turn, respond to this attention. All of this is carried out under the competent & compassionate guidance of the PARD riding instructors. There is an atmosphere of warmth and respect created by the volunteers and the instructors that fuels this desire to contribute to the well being of the riders. In combination with the beauty and magic of the horses, this is the power of PARD.”

Angie Muir with daughter, Leah.

After the birth of my first child, the closest I had been to a horse in two years was, “oh, look honey, horsies”, out the car window. Missing the creatures dearly, but not having the time or money to reinvest in riding I came across the flyer for the PARD open house in my newspaper. So I dug out my old paddock boot and marked my calendar.

Two weeks later, I wandered down the driveway at Stillbrook farms and fell in love with four of the sweetest horses I’ve ever met. Solid and still, I was astounded by their patience as riders mounted from a wheelchair ramp surrounded by volunteers all determined to give even the most unlikely riders a chance to feel that breathless feeling of freedom any rider knows. As the students passed, their smiles reminded me why I was there; because of how badly I missed the fluid movement of a horse carrying your weightlessness around the ring. I may not understand the physical and social benefits of therapeutic riding, but I witnessed an emotional benefit that could have never been put into words on a flyer. “Hey, come out and see how awesome our riders smile when on a horse” wouldn’t do it justice.

After the demonstrations were over, the volunteers rounded the horses in the ring for a meet and greet. As I walked around and eyed up these magnificent beauties I chatted with the instructors and volunteers. I had already made up my mind to pick up a volunteer package on my way out, and was thinking what night I would drive the 50 kms to Keene to see all the wonderful smiles again. As I chatted with one of leads about her discriminate lack of horse experience, she summed it up for me. She said, sure “everyone comes for the horses, but you stay for the riders.” Maybe we should put that on the next flyer.

After my first season as a volunteer in the ring, I took the invitation to join the Board of Directors at their annual planning meeting. My excitement to help PARD grew and the next month I found myself at the Board meeting again, with donation prizes and ticket sales in hand. Before I knew it there was a motion passed to make Cathy and I the newest board members. So here I am, hoping that this will be my reconnection to horses and so much more!

To say good-bye

*His life earnest, his nature kind
A willing step, an active mind
Anxious to please, loath to offend
A loving soul and faithful friend.*

We were saddened by the loss of our dear Robbie in 2012. Robbie was a favourite amongst the PARD riders and volunteers. He was known for his never failing efforts and his gentle nature.

Robbie came to PARD in 2000 when he was just 8 years old. He was a Halflinger/Welsh Pony cross. Robbie was trained to drive before PARD purchased him, therefore making it a fairly easy transition to becoming a riding horse and ultimately, becoming a therapeutic horse.

Robbie fell into the routine of PARD quickly and soon became a trusted mount for many young riders. Riders and volunteers alike loved Robbie's long and full mane, forelock and tail. When the program moved to our current home, Robbie moved with us and continued to be an integral part of the program carrying a full slate of riders each lesson night until his retirement at the end of the 2011 season.

He will be missed.

PARD welcomes a new treasurer

Hello everyone! My name is Kevin Reimer and I am very excited to be your new treasurer. I think the work PARD Therapeutic Riding does is very impressive and I feel privileged to become a part of it. I have an amazing partner Jen and two beautiful daughters, Cole and Lane who are soon to be 9 and 6.

We have lived in Peterborough for the past 4 years and absolutely love it. We definitely consider it home.

With the nicer weather finally here, we are all looking forward to seeing first hand the work you do. And we're not afraid to get our hands dirty either!

I suppose you could say I am on my third career. I recently went back to school to become a paramedic and have worked for Toronto EMS for the past two years. Prior to this, after 'retiring' from my first career, I had the good fortune of staying at home for several years with our daughters. And yes, I have experience in finance too! I am a Certified Management

Kevin Reimer with his family, Pat, Cole and Lane

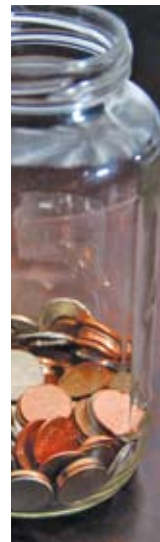

Accountant, or CMA, and in my first career held a variety of positions with many different types or organizations, most recently as a senior financial analyst with CIBC in Toronto.

Happy spring and I look forward to getting to know everyone!

Pennies for ponies

PARD Therapeutic Riding will gladly put your pennies to good use in their retirement. We invite you to bring your pennies to PARD where we will have buckets available for collection. Alternate arrangements can be made with our board members or volunteers if you are unable to bring the pennies to PARD but would like to contribute.

The pennies will be used towards operational expenses - board, feed, veterinary care, etc. What a great way to give purpose to the penny's existence.

No night without

*There is no night without a dawning
No winter without a spring
And beyond the dark horizon
Our hearts will once more sing...
For those who leave us for a while
Have only gone away
Out of a restless, care worn world
Into a brighter day.*

*Helen Steiner Rice,
American poet (1900
- 1981)*

Dedicated to the memory of friends we have lost.

Important notice: police checks

Reminder that all volunteers require a current Police Check with a Vulnerable Sector Check. If you are under 18 yrs old, only the Police Check is required.

For Peterborough-Lakefield Regional Police, we have a letter so that you can qualify for the volunteer rate. For OPP, we have a form that needs to be taken for the Vulnerable Sector Check. Please inquire.
